How to apply for a HIGHER EDUCATION PROGRAM IN FRANCE for the academic year 2023-2024?

You are a UK student or an international student in the UK
and you want to study
in France for 2023-2024?

Find the right platform to apply following your situation

The platforms

to apply

Études en France

If you are an international student keen to study in France, this is your dedicated platform. Students can apply here courses offered by more than 300 French Higher education institutions and then submit a file prior to their visa application once they have been accepted into a French higher education program.

Opening on the first of October 2022

Campus Art

Apply on Campus Art for one of 671 programs in French art schools. Once accepted, you will have to create an account on the platform Etudes en France before your visa application using the category "students already accepted".

Opening on the first of November 2022

Parcoursup

Apply for your first year in our "grandes écoles" (Sciences Po, business schools - and engineering schools) as well as our selective trainings ("classe préparatoire aux grandes écoles, B.T.S., etc.).

On Études en France

If you are applying
• for a license 1
• a first year in an ENSA
(École Nationale Supérieure d'Architecture)

WHAT DO YOU NEED?

- Copies of your records (A-levels, high school grades, and any transcripts of records from any potential other university program)
- A motivation letter
- Your passport
- Your language test up to date : TCF-DAP or TCF-tout public (TP) score or DELF/DALF(level B2 minimum)

WHAT DO YOU DO?

You select up to three programmes in public universities and up to two programmes in architecture schools. You need to write a motivation letter for each programme of your choice.

Tip 1: To increase your chances of getting accepted, we advise you to select as many options as you can.

Tip 2: If you can't find your programme on the platform, it might be one of the few to have their own selection process, and you should contact the institution directly.

WHAT ABOUT LANGUAGE TEST?

Except for an architecture programme and a first year in a public university for which a French test is compulsory, you will have to check the language requirements for the programmes you have chosen.

- If you have the adequate test, you can upload it in the language section on Etudes en France
- If you don't have a test you can register in one of the French language tests sessions (on the last page).

CALENDAR

First year at the university or in an architecture school

- 1st of October – 15 of December: Application period

- 15th of December – 1st of March: Your Etudes en France interview : you will have the opportunity to book an appointment for your interview to explain your project with Campus France UK team.
